“ In 1966 me and my brother were 6 and 9 years old. My single mother raised us and two younger siblings. At Christmas we were not expecting gifts, because we were too poor. I will never forget Uncle Johnny coming through the front door christmas morning with a big bag full of toys. We were so excited, that's when I learned Uncle Johnny was a man that always thought of others without looking for a "pat on the back". Through out the years he was Santa on christmas morning. And as I grew older I always wanted his approval and hoped he never dissaproved of me. He was the best Uncle I ever had... Michael Robinson
