“ Vera was like family to me. She was a friend of my mother, Annie Klingler. They worked together at two different places and when mother went to the nursing home, Vera was a dedicated visitor. I did my genealogy sometime back and found I was a direct descendant of a Mr Breazeal. I told Vera we were cousins and we often referred to each other as cousins. I would be proud to be Vera's cousin.

I am sad and without words; I truly loved Cousin Vera.

I fell blessed having known her and loving her.

God now has a true disciple.

Love you much, Cousin Vera.

Your cousin Charlie

“ We are so sorry to hear about the passing of "Miss" Vera. She was such a sweet lady. We got to know her while she took care of Ella Mae Wright. We had a lot of long conversations and laughs with her. She was a Godly lady as our conversations usually centered around the Bible. In the spring we helped her pick two trash bags of poke salad which she cooked and shared with us, along with some cornbread! Our last conversation with her was in Walmart several months ago. She was shopping with her daughter. Randy knew her husband, Sammy, from Bigelow. They shared stories of him and talked about his pickup truck that he used to drive. She will be truly missed.
