“ My heart is full. My brother - your father Norman, and all the Jordan ancestors are waiting at the gate. Granddaddy Harold and Grandma Rose, Great Granddaddy William and Great Grandma Lula. And the long line before them. They are waiting at the gate. He's coming home. He's home! Our son is home. Rest in Paradise, Anthony. Rest in Peace! Aunt Mittie

“ To my family: For me, this is the hardest one yet. But in the midst of my tears is gratitude. I am grateful that our dear, sweet, handsome nephew / brother/ husband / father / cousin/ son / friend is no longer suffering but is right now, at this very moment, present with The Lord. I am grateful to and for Shannon and how you have represented Christ during this season in which you find yourself, one in which some would have lost their minds. I am grateful for my loving family, and I know that we are going to continue to support each other as we get through this. Most is all, I am grateful for experiencing God’s love through everyone who has poured into us. Nothing has gone to waste. Every prayer, every call, every visit, every thought is appreciated. God is close to the brokenhearted, and He continues to prove Himself to be true through every act of kindness. This morning as I sat in my moment of grief, I can truly say that I still have joy. I love my family. I love Amp and I miss him already. But I am grateful.
